

Voice and Internet Communications Insurance without the Premiums

In times of crisis or emergency, it is difficult to determine how to move forward. Once a plan is established, it takes time to get your business back up and running, which leaves the question: "How do we maintain contact with our customers in the meantime?"

POPPcom provides a solution for all of our Land Line and Voice T-1 customers.

POPPcom's Fire and Flood Backup Plan was developed to help your business reestablish communication with your customers, suppliers, and employees within hours. In a time of crisis, POPPcom will provide your business with the following:

- A 16' x 24' space in our building
- Accommodations for up to six people including Land Lines and up to six telephones, desks and chairs
- Call Forwarding to the telephone stations located in your temporary space in our building*
- Access to the Internet with bandwidth similar to your company's existing bandwidth

At POPPcom, we take your communications seriously. At a moment's notice, we are prepared to help your business during a time of crisis with our Fire and Flood Backup Plan.

Frequently Asked Questions and Answers

What kind of office equipment will be supplied?

We will provide up to six telephones, desks, and chairs.

How will our company make and receive calls?

POPPcom will provide you with Land Lines for making and receiving calls. In addition, we will forward your calls to the telephone stations in your temporary space in our building.*

How many people can fit in the space provided?

We will provide accommodations for up to six people.

How long can our company stay in the temporary emergency space? And what is the cost?

During the first 30 days, the only charge you will incur is your monthly POPPcom invoice. After 30 days, the charge is $50/day (accommodations for two people), plus an additional $10/day per person (up to six people). After 60 days, rates will be negotiated monthly.
